TUCSON, Ariz., June 3.—With the thermometer at 100 degrees "hot" and in presence of a considerable gathering of residents of the Old Pueblo who had come to witness a knock-down and drag-out fight, the two factions of republican party of Arizona held conventions in the opera house here today.

The visitors were disappointed and each faction in a remarkably short time and in an unusually peaceful manner disposed of the business they had gathered to transact and by noon had adjourned after having elected six delegates and six alternates to the republican national convention.

One faction proposed as member of the republican national committee for Lorenzo Hubbell of Apache county; delegate alternate W. H. Clark, Navajo county; delegate James T. Williams of Pima; alternate Allen T. Bird, Santa Cruz; delegate Dr. F. T. Wright of Cochise; alternate J. H. Reddick of Mohave. Delegate P. H. Freudenthal of Graham; alternate W. D. Fisk of Gila. Delegate Robert E. Morrison of Yavapai; alternate H. Vance Clymer of Yuma; national committeeman, Ralph H. Cameron of Coconino.

The Roosevelt delegates and their alternates are: delegate Thos. Molloy of Yuma; alternate C. J. McCabe of Cochise; delegate Ben Daniels of Pima; alternate Walter Wakefield of Pima; delegate Dwight B. Heard of Maricopa; alternate W. B. Shively of Yavapai; delegate John McRedman of Pinal; alternate E. E. Cummings of Santa Cruz; delegate E. S. Clark of Yavapai; alternate A. L. Cummings of Greenlee; delegate J. C. Greenway of Cochise; alternate F. J. Elliott of Gila; Fred Cleveland of Maricopa for national committeeman.

THE PRELIMINARIES.

For the past two days delegates and leaders have been arriving at Tucson to be on the ground early and in attendance at meeting of the state executive committee, which had been by announcement called for the presentation of all contest papers. It had been planned to hold a meeting of this committee on Sunday but that was found to be impossible and it was not until last night that the committee met. The first contest to be heard was that of the Cochise delegates. The contention of the Roosevelt forces was that of regular procedure, their delegates having been chosen by a majority of the members of the 1911 county central committee. The Taft delegation from Cochise claimed to be regularly elected delegates on the ground that the 1911 central committee was without jurisdiction in the matter of naming delegates by reason of no election certificates ever having been issued to the 1911 committeemen by the Cochise county supervisors.

They took the position that the 1908 committee was the only legally constituted committee and consequently the only committee which had authority to elect delegates to the Tucson convention under the state committee call. Of the 1908 committee a meeting had been held with a good sized majority present and had named a Taft delegation.

No other contest was presented to the executive committee for consideration and all of the other counties presented their credentials to be passed upon. It was the announced intention of the executive committee to prepare a temporary roll call for the convention after the hearing they went into executive session for the contest. While no official announcement was made of the result of the executive session gossip was soon in possession of both factions that the Taft forces from Cochise county were accorded half a vote on the temporary roll call of convention and the Roosevelt forces from Cochise county half a vote.

It was at this time in the evening that the Taft and Roosevelt leaders began to prepare for caucuses of their factions and it was known positively that the convention of the morning would split. The Cochise county contest was the rock that wrecked what up to this time had been a fairly peaceful voyage of the delegates.

THE TAFT CAUCUS.

Upon the assembling of the Taft men J. H. Reddick was chosen chairman of the caucus and Geo. Maik secretary. After a brief discussion it was generally agreed that the approaching convention would divide, and preparations should be made for the organization of the Taft forces. A committee consisting of Hubbell, Cameron, Solomon, Mahoney, Croighton, Bob Morrison, Frank Dean and Allen Jaynes spent a good part of the rest of the night assembling the machinery that would create six Taft delegates to Chicago. The program they prepared was later carried out in the Taft convention.

THE ROOSEVELT CAUCUS.

Ex-Governor Kibbey although not presiding was the guiding hand in the caucus of the admirers of Col. Roosevelt, although their caucus was larger and in place of the work of the making of convention plans being delegated to a committee all of the Roosevelt delegates were present and participated. Before the split, there had been rumors all night, first to the effect that the Taft forces were going to occupy the opera house and deny the Roosevelt men the right to enter. Then the story would change and the gossip was that the Roosevelt people had secured keys to the opera house and the Taft forces were to be locked out in the street.

Men with a sporting inclination were betting that this or that particular delegate would be the last man to leave the hall if a knock-down and a drag-out struggle was to be the outcome. Some of the delegates of the Taft people recalled the fact that Ben Daniels and Jack Greenway and George Wilcox, all Roosevelt delegates and on hand had been declared at various times by Col. T. R. to be the bravest men he had ever known in the course of his career.

THE START.

Mr. Hubbell, chairman of the state committee called the convention to order. Hayes, the secretary read off the call. The preliminary over, and speaking for the executive committee, Hubbell announced that he had prepared a temporary roll-call of delegates, the names of whom appeared on the roll and they, only, would be entitled to vote on temporary organization. He proceeded to read the temporary roll which seated the Maricopa county Taft delegates and in Cochise county gave a half vote each to the contending delegations. The reading of the roll being concluded Kibbey of Maricopa speaking from the Roosevelt side of the hall, protested against the decision of the executive committee in the Cochise contest. Immediately following which protest excitement started and the band began to play.

THE TAFT CONVENTION.

Proceeding as if they were not aware that the Roosevelt people were in the same room and also holding a convention, the Taft delegates proceeded to the election of J. J. Reddick of Mohave county temporary chairman and Chas. Solomon of Graham and Geo. Maik of Maricopa as secretaries. This same organization was later made permanent. A committee on credentials consisting of one member from each county was on motion named by the chair and in less time than it takes to read it, the committee submitted their report, not unexpectedly agreeing exactly

SLEEPING MEXICAN WAS CUT IN TWO

Struck by Incoming Train Near Tempe Last Night.

The incoming Arizona Eastern train due here last night at half past ten o'clock, struck and killed an unknown Mexican, three miles below Tempe. He was lying on the track asleep and the engineer did not see him until he was so close that he could not bring the train to a stop. As soon as possible the train was stopped and the trainmen and many of the passengers went back.

Though there were several persons on the train from the vicinity of Tempe, none could identify the dead man and it is not likely that if any one had known him he could have identified him so horribly mangled was the body and so mutilated the face. Half the body was found under the engine and the rest of it back along the track a considerable distance. The remains were gathered together and covered up. The train went on to Tempe and the corner there was notified.

A Roosevelt Manager Fresh from Oyster Bay Feels Absolutely Sure of Majority for His Candidate on First Ballot.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH]
CHICAGO, June 3.—Both Taft and Roosevelt have written Chairman New of the subcommittee on arrangements of the national committee suggesting that the meetings of the national committee at which contests are heard, be open to the press and public.

The president's letter was received at the national committee headquarters today. Lilo Roosevelt, Taft suggests that New take up with the committee the matter of open hearings, and also that the deliberations over contests be carried on in open sessions. Chairman New expressed the opinion tonight that the action taken by Taft and Roosevelt would have great weight with the committee.

The Taft headquarters were opened today by Joseph F. Keating of Indianapolis, but up to a late hour only two eastern representatives of the president had reached Chicago, John Ryan and A. A. Ely of the publicity bureau. Keating urged Director McKinley by telegraph today to hurry to Chicago and he is expected to reach the city tomorrow.

The Roosevelt and Taft headquarters are established in the same hotel. Alexander H. Revell, head of the Illinois headquarters, who returned from Oyster Bay this morning, gave a statement tonight outlining what he said was Roosevelt's attitude toward the convention organization. "I am sure absolutely of a clear majority for Roosevelt on the first ballot," said Revell.

It is reported that two delegates from Alabama instructed for Taft would support Roosevelt because they believed that ninety per cent of their constituents favored the colonel's nomination.

"Florida's twelve delegates are instructed for Taft," said Henry S. Chubb, committeeman from Florida, "and they will vote for him through thick and thin."

Any attempt to reduce the representation of the southern states will be fought in the convention, declared General Powell Clayton, chairman of Arkansas.

NO INCENTIVE FOR BRIBERY
SAYS DEFENSE

It Will Be Contended That M'Namara's Had Agreed to Plead Guilty at the Time of Alleged Corruption of a Juror.

LINCOLN STEFFENS WILL SWEAR TO IT

Much of Time in Yesterday's Trial of Darrow Devoted to Question of Immunity for the State's Chief Witness.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCH]
LOS ANGELES, June 3.—That the agreement for the McNamara brothers to plead guilty had been made before the conclusion of the negotiations for the alleged bribery by Lockwood, was indicated today as one of the probable chief lines of the defense in the Darrow trial. A special session of the county grand jury for the purpose of further investigation of the alleged corruption by jurors by the McNamara defense was the only other important development.

The grand jury session is designated by a member of the prosecution as a "fishing expedition," which might result in several indictments against persons heretofore not charged with complicity in the alleged unlawful use of money by the McNamara defense.

Continuing this afternoon his cross-examination of Franklin, former chief detective for the McNamara defense, Chief Counsel Rogers asked Franklin concerning his meeting with Darrow and Lincoln Steffens at a local hotel, an account of which was given in the direct examination. It was at this time, said the witness on direct examination, that Darrow showed him a list of the names comprising the ninth special venire of McNamara ever made, including the names of Lockwood and Krueger.

"Didn't you know that night?" asked Rogers, "that Darrow and Steffens had already made an agreement which had been accepted for the McNamaras to plead guilty?" An objection by the prosecution was sustained.

Rogers said at the conclusion of the session that Lincoln Steffens and others would testify that the arrangements for the plea of the McNamaras concluded before the evening of November 25, 1911, the time of the meeting testified to by Franklin.

Much of the session was devoted to conditions surrounding the granting of immunity to Franklin for his evidence against Darrow. Franklin testified that the only statement Assistant District Attorney Ford ever made to him regarding immunity was "Bert, we don't want you; we want those behind you."

Rogers read from the court record Ford's request for the imposition of a fine of $4,000 and Ford's statement that he had money belonging to Franklin with which to pay the fine. Rogers declared such a procedure on the part of Ford was fraud if the state's contention that the money belonged to Darrow was correct.

Franklin testified before that he had been paid $4,500 during the months of August, September and October by the McNamara defense as indicated by the entries in his bank book. He said the grand jury asked only two questions as to whether he had given the money to Bain and Lockwood at the suggestion of Darrow.

INCLINATION
BY THE SOLONS
TO PUGILISM

It Is Almost Certain That Bill Permitting Boxing Matches of Limited Rounds Will Be Put Up to Governor.

FIGHT BILL IN SENATE
EDUCATION IN HOUSE

Graham's Constitutional Amendment Forever Prohibiting Sale of School Lands Will Come Before Voters by Initiative.

It really looks as though prize fighting—no, not prize fighting, scientific boxing is a better term—is to be legalized in Arizona. That, so far as the senate and the house are concerned, The senate has already voted for a bill, somewhat on the order of the Lovin measure that fell by the wayside at the regular session, and it is confidently expected it will pass the house. But what his excellency, Mr. Hunt, will do to this bill remains to be seen.

"We just thought we'd pass it up to the governor and see how he would perform," said one of the senators after the bill had been passed by the committee of the whole.

The consideration of this bill provoked a great deal of merriment in the senate yesterday. And it developed in the course of the debate that some of the senators—staid old Presbyterians, some of them, too—had been getting first hand information on the subject by attending a boxing match the night before where Professor So-and-So and Professor What's-His-Name had diligently tried to make mince meat of each other. When a man, who is a Presbyterian deacon and a lawmaker gets in the habit of attending prize fights on Sunday it looks as though it is about time to reform the legislature.

The Honorable Mr. Davis spoke on behalf of the bill when it came up in committee of the whole. He said he thought it a good thing but believed 25 rounds were a mite too many. He thought 20 would be about right.

That didn't appeal to Mr. Pace, who is the Mark Twain of the senate. He said Arizona isn't in the prize fighting class and he didn't want to see us adopt any such wild and woolly proposition as the bill proposed.

Mr. Lovin said he thought the senator was drawing on his imagination. Pace didn't say if he was or not.

Then Mr. Pace suggested that they go the limit. He thought if 20 rounds would be good that 100 rounds would be better and he proposed that the bill provide for that.

Senator Wood of Maricopa, offered an amendment limiting the fights—no boxing matches—to ten rounds. He said he was opposed to prize fights but does favor boxing matches. The senator didn't explain what is a prize fight and what is a boxing match.

Davis then offered to compromise on 18 rounds.

It must be explained here that the bill prohibits the use of "deadly weapons" in these scientific exhibitions. Roberts moved that those words be stricken out. He said he thought a much more scientific contest could be given if the men were allowed to use knives and guns. Also, he remarked, it would have a tendency to raise the casualty list, which he thought would be a good thing.

Davis then got his 20 round amendment through and also proposed that the jurisdiction of the clubs fathering the fights—no, the boxing matches should be vested in the boards of supervisors.

Pace said he thought the bill a mighty good thing as first aid to the uplift movement. He declared a prize fight to be just as elevating as a saloon dance. Then some inquiring member wanted to know where he got his knowledge of saloon dances and Mr. Pace blushed like a school girl. Pace also moved that an emergency clause be attached to the bill but this was altogether too frivolous and the senate treated it with disdain. The bill was finally ordered to take its regular course and it is said it is certain to pass finally.

It is not to be taken as an illustration of the real difference between the two houses but it is a noteworthy fact that while the senate expended the most of its energy yesterday discussing the merits of prize fights the house was considering the educational needs of the state. But maybe the conditions will be reversed one of these days.

The educational question came up in the house through the consideration of W. J. Graham's bill providing for an amendment to the constitution forbidding for all time the sale of the school lands. This is a duplicate of the bill which passed the house at the regular session and which was killed in the senate.

There were some exciting times in the house while this measure was under consideration. The arguments were the same as have been heard before.
